

We Simplify Complexity and Turn it into Your Advantage

A Forensic Accounting team that Helps You Win Your Divorce Case

Stanley I. Foodman
CPA, CFE, CFF
Managing Director

"With Foodman Forensic Consulting on your team ... you will no longer have to rely on luck to win your cases, because you have the weight of the evidence on your side."

CLIENT TESTIMONIAL

To the non-expert, the world of financial information is complex, mystifying, and intimidating. So when it comes to safeguarding your financial interests during divorce, trust the experts at Foodman Forensic Consulting to skillfully sift through the intricate financial details, "connect the dots" in a precise and logical manner, and empower you to paint a clear, convincing, and compelling argument that is designed to win in or out of court. We defend your interests by arming you with the clearest and most solid case possible, equip you with the evidence you need to successfully prove your position and refute opposition, and immunize you from current and future financial risk by helping you implement practices that keep you safe.

"Truthsayers" with a Reputation for Expertise and Integrity

Known as "truthsayers" among family law judges and other divorce-related professionals for our demonstrated commitment to objectivity, independent thinking, and integrity, our multidisciplinary team of experts have earned a reputation for excellence by ensuring that our clients receive accurate and fair financial investigative results and reporting during their divorce proceedings. Since earning his license to practice public accounting in 1972, our Managing Director Stanley I. Foodman, CPA, CFE, CFF, has cultivated an in-depth special expertise in the field of accounting and taxation for several industries, and has been retained as an expert in numerous litigations.

A Value Added Service at Fair and Competitive Rates

The difference between "value add" and "expense" is the difference between a results-based solution that adds measurable benefit to your situation, versus one that merely eats away at your money, time, and other resources. At Foodman Forensic Consulting, our fair and competitive rates reflect our commitment to being a value added service. We work efficiently so that you can achieve maximum results, while at the same time, protect you from costly financial losses now and in the future.

Accessible, Approachable and Personal Service

Divorce and its multitude of complex financial issues can create anxiety, doubt, anger and fear. We understand the challenges that you're facing, and offer you personal service that confidently helps you move through the process. We promptly respond to your inquiries by phone, email, or in-person at our Miami office, and create with you a powerful and personal relationship built on trust, reliability, competence, support, and mutual respect.
